NEW DELHI: The IAF RTW expedition has moved on from Texarkana and is going towards Memphis today instead of the earlier plan of going to New Orleans.

The change has been necessitated by extremely poor connection over New Orleans. This change in route may prove to be a blessing for it seems the duo of Wing Cdrs Rahul Monga and Anil Kumar may save few days. That would help the expedition that has been hamstrung by extremely poor weather and is already 12 days behind schedule.

This expedition, attempting to create a new world record in circumnavigating the globe in a single engine microlite aircraft in the shortest possible time, took off from the Hindan air base near Delhi on
